Camp Variety is a day camp for children with disabilities. There is an allotment of spaces for children without disabilities to promote inclusion of all youth. The mission of the camp is to provide children with and without disabilities with life enriching, social, wellness, and recreational programs in a safe, inclusive environment. The camp is located at the Farring Baybrook Recreation Center in the Brooklyn neighborhood of South Baltimore.

The center features a multi-purpose room (gym), dance room, arts-n-crafts room, full kitchen, accessible playground, two outdoor basketball courts and a pool. Programming includes aquatics, arts-n-crafts, sports, dancing/singing, playground activities, a talent show, fashion show, carnival, end-of-camp disco, field trips and outside entertainment.

The inclusive nature of the camp promotes knowledge and acceptance of disabilities. Additionally, the programming is geared toward developing lifelong leisure and recreational pursuits while also promoting social interaction, physical fitness, gross/fine motor skills and fun! While the camp exposes campers to new experiences, it also provides them with a respite from the harsh physical, emotional and economical conditions they face on a daily basis.

Transportation to and from camp is provided for Baltimore city residents.

Fieldtrip schedule under development. Tentative field trips include the Maryland Zoo, the Maryland Science Center, Patapsco State Park, Duckpin Bowling, and Cascade Lake.

Fee Schedule

Camp Fee: $450 for six weeks

Before- and After- Care: $20 per week or $120 for six-week session
